III. READING COMPREHENSION:

READ THE FOLLOWING PASSAGES AND ANSWER THE QUESTIONS.

Reading 1: Scientists once thought that only human beings had culture. But most of them now believe that animals also have some elements of culture. For example, some kinds of animals make and use tools, and the members of many species communicate with one another by means of signs.

Tool making consists basically of taking something found in the environment and using it for a purpose other than its original function. Elephants break off tree branches and wave them with their trunks to whisk away flies. Chimpanzees catch termites by peeling a twig and inserting the sticky, sappy end of the twig into a termite mound. When a chimpanzee pulls the twig out, termites stick to it. Young chimpanzees learn this method of catching termites from older members of their group. The technique is a cultural trait that has been passed along from one generation of chimpanzees to the next.

Many animals use various kinds of signs to communicate. For example, dogs bark and lay their ears back. Dolphins communicate with one another by means of barks, clicks, whistles, and other sounds. Scientists have taught chimpanzees to "speak" to people in sign language. However, most scientists agree that any culture must include the use of symbols to be considered a culture.

Reading 2: Canada's vast Arctic region is extremely thinly populated. Indians and Eskimos have lived there for thousands of years, and today they make up nearly half of the region's population. Most of the other people of the Canadian Arctic are traders, miners, and members of the armed forces and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Many Eskimos and Indians still follow their traditional occupations—fishing, hunting, and trapping, but in general, the old ways of life in the Arctic have ended. The people live in modern houses than in tents or igloos. They wear modern clothing and eat food bought in stores. Snowmobiles and motor boats have largely replaced dog sleds and kayaks as their principle means of transportation.

The end of the traditional ways of life has brought many social problems to the Eskimos. They have a high unemployment rate, and their rates of alcoholism and crime are rising. The future may bring improved economic conditions as the result of the discovery of petroleum in the Arctic region. Many Eskimos may find jobs in the construction of pipelines to transport oil and natural gas to markets in Southern Canada. However, this construction also threatens to displace entire communities and perhaps further disrupt the traditional Eskimo way of life.

F. READ THE FOLLOWING TEXT AND THEN ANSWER THE QUESTIONS

If you feel you need to end your talk with a joke, make sure you go out with the bang. When a closing joke falls flat, it is almost impossible to recover. Even the most experienced comedians have to be prepared for an occasional misfire. That's when the pros pull out their life-saver—a line that helps make up for the bomb. When Bob Hope bungles a line, he sometimes follows it by saying, "my wife told me that story would never work. I see you all side with her." A few more hints: keep your material short, tell it slowly and, no matter how hilarious they are, don't laugh at your own jokes while you're telling them. Like tennis or golf, successful humor comes with the doing. The next time someone asks how to get to the ALBERT Hall, remember to reply, "Practise, practise, practise."

47. A person is not expected to .....

- a. laugh at other people's jokes.
- b. make his or her humor short.
- c. laugh at his or her own jokes.
- d. practice his humor in advance.

48. The word "pros" in the above paragraph should mean .....

- a. professionals
- b. processes
- c. professors
- d. advantages

49. According to the passage .....

- a. Closing jokes should be always successful.
- b. Always you must close your speech by telling a joke.
- c. Closing jokes should always fall flat
- d. On occasional misfires it is a good idea to describe your spouse viewpoint.

50. What is the main idea of the last paragraph?

- a. When a joke falls flat, it is a good idea to practice.
- b. Practice makes perfect!

Read the passage and answer the following questions

I am Doug Alan. I recently spent two years in the Arctic filming the series Blue Planet. I love being in an environment that hasn't changed for 20,000 years. Of course it's freezing, but it must be a healthy place because you never catch cold. When I'm filming, I like to really feel how lonely the environment is. Filming underwater involves cutting through thick ice and diving in ties to a line. The person at the other end has to be ready to pull you out fast if necessary.

Originally I was a research diver for the British Arctic Survey project. But for me science lacked excitement. I'd always enjoyed photography, and whenever camera teams passed through, they encouraged me to watch and learn. I was then able to move into filming in 1985 and have contracted on Arctic and Antarctic wildlife ever since.

I prefer to be face to face with the animals I'm filming. I haven't got in the water with killer whales yet, but I plan to. Of course it's dangerous if you choose the wrong moment, they're big animals and can move fast, so I'd be stupid to film them searching for food.

I've never had problems with polar bears, although once I was frightened when one tried to get into my tent. Polar bears are bold, clever and dangerous. But I made this one see I wasn't about to attack it. I'm sure it realized I wouldn't hurt it.

When I come back home from my trips, I work in the mornings and spend the afternoons swimming to keep fit. Now I'm fifty, filming is harder. The challenge for me is to continue to deliver high-quality work.

سوالات تشریحی

متن های زیر را به فارسی روان ترجمه کنید. هر سؤال یک نمره.

Text ۱

Some years ago, in a town in the United States, I heard somebody say "those yellow bastards," meaning the Japanese. More recently, in another town, I heard somebody else use the same phrase, but meaning the Chinese. There are many reasons, not connected with literary criticism, why nobody should use a phrase like that about anybody. But the literary reason is that the phrase is pure reflex: it's no more a product of a conscious mind than the bark of a dog is.

Text ۲

Long ago men learned that the world of nature is built with mathematical exactness according to refined and powerful laws; every bee strokes its wings exactly ۴۴۰ times a second to propel itself forty miles an hour; the eye of every fly has exactly ۷۰۰۰ lenses; every spider's thread is composed of ۳۰۰ single threads.

Text ۳

The story of the Trojan War, told in the Iliad, was long thought to be pure fiction; however, today we can visit the ruins of Troy and walk through the gateway, guarded by a ruined tower, through which the Trojan soldiers marched out to meet the forces of the invading Greeks. What is more, the man who discovered the ruins of this city made use of no documents or research materials other than Homer's description of its location.

Text ۴

The title of this lecture is likely, I fear, to offend some critical ears. For although Sources of Knowledge is in order, and "Sources of Error" would have been in order too, the phrase "Sources of Ignorance" is another matter, "Ignorance is something negative: it is the absence of Knowledge. But how on earth can the absence of anything have sources?

Text ۵

More than three centuries previously, Roger Bacon, the inventor of spectacles, had explained how a telescope could be constructed so as "to make the stars appear as near as we please." He had shown how a lens could be so shaped that it would collect all the rays of light falling on it from a distant object.

RICHARD CORY

Whenever Richard Cory went down town,
 We people on the pavement looked at him:
 He was a gentleman from sole to crown,
 Clean favored, and imperially slim.
 And he was always quietly arrayed,
 And he was always human when he talked;
 But still he fluttered pulses when he said,
 "Good-morning," and he glittered when he walked.
 And he was rich—yes, richer than a king—
 And admirably schooled in every grace:
In fine, we thought that he was everything
 To make us wish that we were in his place.
 So on we worked, and waited for the light,
 And went without the meat, and cursed the bread:
 And Richard Cory, one calm summer night,
 Went home and put a bullet through his head.

That's my last Duchess painted on the wall,
Looking as if she were alive. I call
That piece a wonder, now: Fra Pandolf's hands
Worked busily a day, and there she stands.
Will't please you sit and look at her? I said
"Fra Pandolf" by design, for never read
Strangers like you that pictured countenance,
The depth and passion of its earnest glance,
But to myself they turned (since none puts by
The curtain I have drawn for you, but I)
And seemed as they would ask me, if they durst,
How such a glance came there; so, not the first
Are you to turn and ask thus. Sir, 'twas not
Her husband's presence only, called that spot
Of joy into the Duchess' cheek: perhaps
Fra Pandolf chanced to say "Her mantle laps
Over my lady's wrist too much," or "Paint
Must never hope to reproduce the faint
Half-flush that dies along her throat": such stuff
Was courtesy, she thought, and cause enough
For calling up that spot of joy. She had
A heart—how shall I say?—too soon made glad,
Too easily impressed; she liked whate'er
She looked on, and her looks went everywhere.
Sir, 'twas all one! My favour at her breast,
The dropping of the daylight in the West,
The bough of cherries some officious fool
Broke in the orchard for her, the white mule

She rode with round the terrace—all and each
 Would draw from her alike the approving speech,
 Or blush, at least. She thanked men,—good! but thanked Somehow—I know not how—as if she ranked
 My gift of a nine-hundred-years-old name
 With anybody's gift. Who'd stoop to blame
 This sort of trifling? Even had you skill
 In speech— (which I have not) —to make your will Quite clear to such an one, and say, "Just this
 Or that in you disgusts me; here you miss,
 Or there exceed the mark"—and if she let
 Herself be lessoned so, nor plainly set
 Her wits to yours, forsooth, and made excuse,
 —E'en then would be some stooping; and I choose
 Never to stoop. Oh sir, she smiled, no doubt,
 Whene'er I passed her; but who passed without
 Much the same smile? This grew; I gave commands,
 Then all smiles stopped together. There she stands
 As if alive. Will't please you rise? We'll meet
 The company below, then. I repeat,
 The Count your master's known munificence
 Is ample warrant that no just pretence
 Of mine for dowry will be disallowed;
 Though his fair daughter's self, as I avowed
 At starting, is my object. Nay, we'll go
 Together down, sir. Notice Neptune, though,
 Taming a sea-horse, thought a rarity,
 Which Claus of Innsbruck
 cast in bronze for me!
